HOME ROAD

Most of us take living in a home with a key and a fixed address for granted, but there are an estimated 30 to 40 million nomads around the world who live life on the move.

A The Tuareg of the Sahara

Last year, I travelled to Mali to witness firsthand the ancient Tuareg way of life in the Sahara Desert in north and west Africa. I was immediately struck by the bright indigo veils worn by, I assumed, the women of this tribe. Imagine my surprise when one of these figures on a camel introduced 'himself' as Yousseff al-Hamada and explained that it's the Tuareg men, not the women, who wear this protection against the harsh sand. While drinking the first of many cups of mint tea together, the Tuareg drink tea 6 or 7 times a day, Yousseff explained that in the past, these 'Blue Men of the Sahara' protected the camel trading caravans crossing the Sahara Desert, but now they mostly work as livestock herders. I sat fascinated as Yousseff showed me the ancient script of the Tuareg's language which can be written from right to left, left to right or top to bottom. Later, while listening to the men singing traditional poems and the women playing a violin-like instrument, it seemed like an idyllic way of life. Unfortunately, as water holes are drying up and animals are dying because of recent droughts, many Tuareg are now migrating to cities. "We are seeing the beginning of the end of the Tuareg way of life," Yousseff told me, sadly.

Multiple matching

Read the texts then read the questions and underline the key words. Read again and try to match parts of the texts to the information in the questions. Remember that some information will be paraphrased.

Read again and for questions 1-10, choose from the communities A-C. Justify your answers.

Which community/communities ...
appeared to have no problems to the visitor?
has physical abilities that others don't?
hasn't completely rejected the modern world?
became aware of something important because of their experience?
stops moving at a certain time of year?
left their visitor with negative emotions?
has seen a change in the work they do?
can be offended if visitors don't do something?
are seeing their numbers drop?

The Sea Gypsies of the Andaman Sea

It is said that the 2 – 3,000 Moken or 'sea gypsies' who have lived for hundreds of years off the coasts of southern Thailand and Myanmar are born on the sea, live on the sea and die on the sea. Settling in temporary stilt huts only during the monsoon season, they live more than half of each year in hand-built wooden boats using simple nets and spears to catch fish to eat and to sell. While spending 6 weeks photographing Moken families in Thailand, what struck me most was the simplicity of their lives. They have few possessions and don't even have a word for 'want' because they have always taken everything they need from the sea. They treated me as family, sharing what little they had. I learnt that the Moken can see twice as clearly and stay underwater twice as long as normal. So deep is their knowledge of the sea, that they recognised the signs of the 2004 Asian tsunami coming and fled to higher ground before anyone else. Unfortunately the Moken are facing problems which are reducing their population.

There are no words for hello or goodbye in the Moken language so I just left. I was grateful for my experience, but sad that the future of these unique people is so uncertain.

C The Mongolian nomads

Mongolia is the most sparsely populated country in the world and 40% of its population lives a life of nomadic herding, moving from place to place. A Mongolian proverb says 'Happy is the one who has guests' and in fact this was proven to me from the moment I first entered the traditional circular tent of my hosts. The first thing they did was serve me a cup of horse milk, Mongolia's favourite drink. I later learnt that showing hospitality is so important to the Mongolians that it's rude to pass an empty tent without going in to help yourself to refreshments! I participated in every aspect of daily life during my stay, watching over, milking, shearing and combing the family's 40 goats, 20 horses, 4 camels and over 200 sheep. The nomads spend all day caring for these animals which they rear for meat, dairy products and clothes. Still, one thing showed me that the nomads aren't totally untouched by the 21st century - the satellite dish attached to the outside of the tent! lan Cauldly, tourist first met the Insect Tribe of Papua New Guinea as I travelled the world to observe how ancient cultures and tribes were adapting to modern world. I lived in their secluded village, Swagup, ate their food and shared their wooden shelters. I knew my stay was a rare exception to their rules and wanted to return the overwhelming hospitality that they had shown me, so I invited the chief and his family to experience my everyday life in South London.

Before I knew it, we were making the 12,000-mile trip back to my home. Being two days' trip by boat from the nearest road, Swagup is completely isolated so naturally I was a little nervous about taking six stone age travellers into my world. However, on arrival, my doubts eased as I watched them getting used to modern technology. At first, every escalator was met with terror and every lift with suspicion. A revolving door created gasps of wonder. "It is an invisible hand that moves this. I can't believe it!" exclaimed the chief. Over the next few days, with spears on their backs and bows over their shoulders, they explored our world. They were fascinated by everyday scenes and situations that we would not give a second thought to.

Some of the capital's tourist spots proved a challenge. At the London Eye, the tribe stopped in the shadow of the huge wheel. "It is not meant for humans," they said. Eventually the chief decided that they should try it. "I couldn't believe I was so high above the land. There's no end, no mountain, only buildings. I was wondering how the wheel goes round, what makes this turn" he said. The underground was another great source of delight. The tribe was fascinated by the size of the underground network. The chief was convinced the underground was built first and the rest of London was built on top later! It wasn't all fun and games, though. When they visited an apartment block built for the elderly, they were shocked that their children didn't look after their 'elders'. "It is not right," the chief said, shaking his head. "They brought you up, they cared for you and when they are old you must care for them."

The goodbyes at Heathrow were emotional. Much of what the tribespeople said made me pause for thought. I don't think they would swap our world for their own, a world where everything they need is free and plentiful, a world where everything is shared and where the only things treasured are family values and community.

 - G The packaging was still intact and the sell-by date was that day.

nder the cover of night, I lift the lid of the dustbin and shine in my torch. It's below zero and my hands are shaking as I rummage inside. I'm on the hunt for food. But I'm not homeless and I could certainly afford to go to the shops if I wanted to. So, why am I doing this? Quite simply, I'm living as a freegan.

Freeganism – a combination of the words 'free' and 'vegan' - is a movement whose devotees take responsibility for the impact of their consumer choices and find alternative ways of meeting their everyday needs. Around 17 million tons of food are buried in British landfill sites every year, four million of which are edible. 1

Searching in bins for food sounds disgusting, not to mention embarrassing. There's also the possibility of food poisoning. So, just how easy is it to live on discarded food? I met up with two London freegans, Ash Falkingham, 21, and Ross Parry, 46, for a crash course. It was 5 pm and dark enough for no one to see us. Ash and Ross went to a supermarket wheelie bin in South London, lifted the lid and started sorting through the contents. Clear plastic bags contained frozen ready meals. 2 Underneath were 10 tubs of luxury ice cream.

Ash and Ross live entirely from 'urban foraging'. They visit markets after closing time and the bins of supermarkets and high-street stores. A trip to India inspired Ross to adopt the freegan lifestyle. "In India, they don't waste anything. That's how they live. In the West, everything goes to landfill sites."

Back in their van, I tucked into some chocolate-mocha slices while Ross and Ash told me about the time a group of freegans found a bin full of 200 frozen chickens and another with a flat-screen TV. 4 Too embarrassed to go on my own, I roped in my friend Dave!

As Dave and I set off on the first day, it was freezing cold. Eventually, we found a supermarket rubbish bin that hadn't been locked away and ... bingo! There was a plastic bag full of vegetables so, while Dave held the lid open, I climbed up, balanced on the side and reached in. 5 But the sealed bag was full of potatoes, apples and carrots, and there was nothing wrong with them. As we got our free food, we discussed possible menus and decided on soup. Dessert was baked freegan apples with cinnamon and almonds — delicious.

On the second morning, I didn't feel ill - a good start - so we tucked into our freegan breakfast of avocados and bread. 6 On the menu that night was a spicy noodle soup with green peppers, carrots from the previous day and some steamed cabbage on the side.

On the final day, I got my first freegan lamp and again, we found enough food to dine like kings: sausages, greens and roasted onion. Although three days is a short time to live as a freegan, I've already got a much better sense of how much food is unnecessarily condemned to landfill. I'm tempted to continue with my freegan lifestyle.

Heathrow is my ME

A s dusk approaches at Heathrow, Europe's busiest airport quietens down for the night. Night cleaners begin their shifts and passengers waiting for delayed flights curl up on benches in the departure hall. One woman, Eram Dar, has found a cosy spot on the floor next to a vending machine. There is nothing to distinguish her from the waiting passengers around her, except that she has no passport and ticket and is in no hurry to leave the terminal. For well over a year now, it has been her home and she isn't the only one. Eram is one of well over 100 people who live permanently at Heathrow airport.

Most people would have difficulty in telling these permanent residents of 10 Heathrow apart from the thousands of travellers that pass through the terminals each day. Wheeling suitcases full of their only belongings, they dress in Hawaiian-style holiday shirts or even business suits in order to give the impression that they are on a business trip or flying to a sunny destination.

Eram, a middle-aged ex-law student who became homeless after she 15 could no longer pay her rent, actually considers herself fortunate to live in Heathrow. She says, "I liked it here immediately. I have never felt lonely because there are so many people. I don't mix much with the other homeless, although they are of all ages and from every walk of life. We all recognise each other, but I just like to keep to myself." There are showers in every 20 terminal where Eram can stay clean and presentable. She can sometimes help herself to food passing by the caterers, while away her time reading magazines and newspapers left behind by passengers.

It's difficult not to suspect that Eram is just putting on a brave face. It's hard to believe she's truly satisfied with this way of life. Once a week, she travels to 25 London to pick up a cheque for £60 from a charity. "The cash goes nowhere," she says. "Buying food at the airport is expensive. I don't eat anything at breakfast because, if I do, it makes me feel more hungry." Living in Heathrow isn't easy for Eram. Besides being awakened by the jangle of coins as a passenger buys something from the machine, loud announcements and 30 bustling passengers, she has to engage in a full-time cat-and-mouse game with the police and security staff. It's illegal to sleep at Heathrow unless you have a flight to catch, so along with the rest of Heathrow's homeless population, Eram has to wash and change her clothes every morning in order to not stand out from the crowd and be detected. If she is, she faces a night in 35 the cold bus terminal or worse, being thrown out into the rain. "The builders who work overnight at the airport are very kind and don't report the homeless to the authorities," she says. "The cleaners turn a blind eye too."

Night workers aren't the only ones trying to help this unusual group of people. Broadway, a homeless charity, visits the airport weekly to offer the 40 airport's homeless temporary accommodation, help to get travel documents for migrant workers and attempt to reconnect people with their families. But, as a Broadway worker points out, "Homelessness is a way of life. It can be very difficult to convince people to receive help." Like the passengers escaping to sunny holiday destinations, many of Heathrow's homeless are also in 45 search of escape from debts, legal problems or family responsibilities.

The saddest fact is that unless they are arrested or fall ill, many of Heathrow's homeless will stay there for the foreseeable future. "I don't really see a different future," Eram Dar admits. "In fact, I could be living at Heathrow forever."

- For questions 1-6, choose the correct answer (A, B, C or D). Justify your choices.
 - 1 What does the writer focus on in the first paragraph?
 - A what Heathrow airport is like at night

Hey, Neighbour!

How often do you use a lawnmower, a ladder or a power drill in your household? Probably not very often, so why not share items 0) like these through a neighbourhood share scheme? Many schemes like Australia's 'The Sharehood' allow members to see what people 1) live close to them would like to lend or borrow. If there isn't anything like this in your neighbourhood, you could set one 2) or just agree with your neighbours to share 3) items. Another idea is to share garden space.

Getting around

One of the biggest costs 4) days to both our wallets and the environment is transport. But now there are around 200 city bike sharing schemes around the world which let you borrow a bike from a 'sharing station' and drop it off at another one. No bike sharing in your town or city vet? If your destination 5) far away to walk to. how about carpooling? On average, a car is used 6) about an hour a day, but it costs about £5,000 per year to run. This is a terrible waste, but there are now thousands of neighbourhood-based car sharing systems in cities around the world that enable you to find a car 7) you need one, without the costs and responsibility of ownership.

What to do with your 'stuff'

When did you last look in your wardrobe and consider how many of your clothes you haven't worn in the last 6 months? One way to pass them on to someone 8) will wear them is to organise a 'clothes swap party' with your friends or neighbours. Not only will you get rid 9) things you don't want anymore without just throwing them 10), you might just get a whole new wardrobe for vourself too! You can do the same with books and other possessions 11) are just gathering dust around your house. Also, don't forget that 12) are now dozens of Internet sites to help you share, swap or give away reusable 'stuff'.

A for/against essay

1 Read the rubric and answer the questions.

You have had a class discussion about city life. Now your teacher has asked you to write an essay giving your views on the following statement. There are both advantages and disadvantages to living in a block of flats.
Write your essay (120-180 words).

- 1 What exactly do you have to write?
- 2 What style will you write it in?
- 3 Which of the following points are pros and which are cons? Can you add any more ideas?
 - can be noisy
 - often has a good community spirit
 - flats can be small & cramped
 - cheap rent
 - often conveniently located near to city centre
 - no outside space
- a) Read the model. Which paragraph(s) (1-4) contain(s): the arguments against? the writer's opinion? a quotation? a rhetorical question? the arguments for? justifications & examples? linking words and expressions?
 - b) Which of the ideas in Ex. 1.3/your own ideas are mentioned? What justifications/examples support each idea?

The Pros and Cons of Living in a Block of Flats

An American actor and writer once said, "I installed a skylight in my apartment ... the people who live above me are furious!" Without a doubt, there are many challenges to living in a block of flats, but are there advantages, too?

There are actually many good reasons why living in a block of flats can be a positive experience. Firstly, flats are usually conveniently located close to town centres. This means that amenities and facilities such as shops and banks are close by. In addition, living in a block of flats can be quite cheap. Rents and household bills are usually reasonable and residents can save on expensive car parking or public transport costs as their home may be near enough to work or college to walk there. Lastly, residents can often enjoy a great community spirit in blocks of flats. This is because they live so close together.

On the other hand, there can be plenty of disadvantages to living in flats. To start with, the blocks are often in unattractive, inner city areas. Also, life can be uncomfortable there. City flats are often cramped and noisy, for example, with little privacy and storage space. Also, they rarely have outside space. For example, there is often no private garden.

All in all, there are both pros and cons to living in a block of flats. I believe that sometimes the pros outweigh the cons and, other times, vice versa. After all, doesn't it depend on a person's individual needs and circumstances?

3 Read the table, then find the linking words/expressions in the model in Ex. 2. Replace each one with an alternative.

Useful language p. GR5 to list: Firstly, First of all, To begin/start with, Secondly, Finally, Lastly, Another advantage/disadvantage of ... is to introduce reasons/examples/justifications: This means that, For this reason, Consequently, As a result, For example/For instance, such as, like, in particular to contrast: On the other hand, However, even though, although, In contrast, Nonetheless to conclude: All in all, In summary, Therefore, To sum up, Taking everything into account, In conclusion, All things considered

- Find the two topic sentences in the model in Ex. 2. Which sentences support them? which include: reasons/justifications? examples?
- Put the sentences (A-E) in the paragraph in the correct order. Which is the topic

- A To start with, they can keep an eye on your house when you're not at home.
- B Not only this but it's great to have good, supportive friends living close by.
- C There are many advantages to getting on well with your neighbours.
- They can water your plants and feed your pets when you're on holiday, for example and would notice any vandals or burglars.
- These days, our busy lives can be lonely and difficult and it helps greatly if a neighbour can pop round for a cup of coffee or walk your dog when you are ill.
 - b) Write supporting sentences for the following topic sentence using appropriate linking words/expressions. Compare with a partner.

There are many reasons why using a bike to get around a city is a good idea.

What techniques does the writer use in the model in Ex. 2 to begin/end the essay? Choose either the beginning or the ending and write an alternative one using different techniques. Compare with your partner.

Your Turn

Read the rubric and underline the key words, then answer the questions.

> You have seen the following notice in an international student magazine.

Even though city centres can be dirty, chaotic places, many people still prefer to live in them. What are the advantages and disadvantages of living in the city centre?

Write your essay (120-180 words).

- 1 What exactly do you have to write and who/ what for?
- 2 What kind of language will you use?
- 3 What will you include in each paragraph?
- 4 Which of the following are: pros? cons?
 - easier to find a job in a big city
 - often crowded
 - homes often small/cramped
 - rents can be high
 - crime rates often high
 - never get bored
 - can be lonely, impersonal places
- 5 Which of the justifications/examples below match the ideas in question 4? Try to think of more pros/cons & their justifications/examples.
 - close to amenities and entertainment such as shops, restaurants and theatres
 - many big companies have their offices in cities
 - there are often traffic jams, public transport is busy and the streets are full of people
 - people in cities rush around & don't take time to get to know each other
 - have to be careful travelling alone at night
- Use your answers in Ex. 7 to do the task. Follow the plan below.

Para 1: present the topic

Para 2: arguments for & justifications/examples

Para 3: arguments against & justifications/examples

Para 4: conclusion, opinion

Close your eyes and imagine what slavery looks like. You see a time in the past with hordes of people shackled together, dirty and dressed in rags, right? But could you imagine that the person serving you in a restaurant or begging on the street could in fact be a victim of modern-day slavery?

Two hundred years after English member of parliament William Wilberforce campaigned to end slavery, an estimated 27 million people are still trapped in a modern-day form of slavery. Its victims are forced into sweatshops, agriculture, construction or to be street beggars for little or no pay. Shockingly, this is happening more now than at any other time in human history. It is the fastest growing criminal activity in the world.

Given Kachepa, a boy born in a small poverty-stricken village in Zambia, found himself a victim of one of the most widespread forms of this evil trade, illegal forced labour. Orphaned at the age of nine and with no direction, he joined a local singing group where he met Keith Grimes. Grimes was so impressed with the group's singing that he set up auditions to form a boys' choir to tour the USA. 1 Grimes' offer seemed like a perfect dream to Given, so when Grimes offered him a place in the choir, he eagerly accepted.

But after arriving in the USA, things were very different from what Given had expected. Grimes forced the choir boys to perform between four to seven hour-long concerts every day, often without any food or rest. Deprived of any healthcare, many of the boys were often sick. When they complained, Grimes threatened to send them back to Zambia in disgrace. 2

After a year, Grimes passed away, but his equally brutal daughter took over the choir. By then, the boys had realised that no one was sending any money home and began to resist instructions. 3 The officers arrived, but after questioning the boys, what they heard horrified them. It seemed the members of the choir had become victims of human trafficking! Eventually, Given and the boys found good foster homes in the USA or returned to Zambia.

As for Given, he attended university in Texas and now gives speeches at anti-slavery events and advises other trafficking victims. 4

Although Given's story eventually had a happy ending, he is one of only a few lucky ones to escape the shackles of modernday slavery. The crime thrives on deception, corruption and secrecy. A trafficker may offer to smuggle someone into a country and make them work as a waitress or a nanny and then force the unsuspecting victim to endure long work hours with little or no pay and even physical brutality. Offenders are very good at controlling victims by threatening to hurt their family if they do not comply. 5

With recent reports suggesting that the average cost for a slave today is just $90, authorities are finding trafficking very difficult to combat. 6 Charities such as Anti-slavery

International are fighting human trafficking and helping survivors. Support their campaigns by donating to them or even taking part. Something else we can all do is become a fairtrade consumer, which means finding out which companies support ethical working conditions and only shopping with them. We should also be alert to suspicious situations. Trafficking clues include: poor living conditions, not being allowed to speak to a person alone and employers holding identity documents. If you notice any tell-tale signs then contact your local police immediately.

One person cannot fight it; it requires all of us to come together and battle for justice.
