Brightworks SCHOOL

Don't play with fire. Don't mess with electricity. Don't get dirty. These are some of the rules in many schools - but not in Brightworks in California, USA! In this school, children don't learn from books: they find out things on their own and then write or speak about what they find out. The school hasn't got normal classrooms. There are spaces for a canteen, an Art room, a Science lab and a library all in one huge room! The teachers don't stand in front of a blackboard and talk either. They walk around and help the students - but only when the students ask questions. Students also go on trips to learn about the world outside their school. They visit national parks, museums, the space centre and the beach!

At Brightworks, they don't have classes. Students work in groups of 7 to 10. They aren't always the same age, and so the older ones help the younger ones. At Brightworks, everyone is a teacher! It's a fun and friendly place, and the best school for students that like to learn by doing.

- Brightworks school is ①
 The school hasn't got ②
 The teachers don't stand ③

- a normal classrooms.
 b in California, USA.
 c in front of a blackboard.

2 Mark the sentences R (right), W (wrong) or DS (doesn't say).

1. Brightworks isn't like other schools.
2. Children learn from books.
3. They go on school trips every week.
4. All the children in a group are the same age.

3 Answer the questions.

1. How do children learn?

2. What is there in the school?

3. When do teachers help students?

4 Write questions for the answers below.

1. _____
 Some of the rules in many schools are: don't play with fire, don't mess with electricity and don't get dirty.
2. _____
 They go on trips to national parks, museums, the space centre and the beach.
3. _____
 There are 7 to 10 students in each group.
