A HARD LIFE

Once there was a girl. She lived in a small house with her father. Every day, she cooked, cleaned, went to school and helped her father with his work. She didn't have time to play with her friends or have fun. One day, she said to her father, "I'm not happy. I cook, clean, study and work all day. My life is hard and I don't like it!"

The girl's father wasn't angry. He thought for a while, and then he said, "Bring me one egg, one potato and some tea leaves."

The girl brought the things to her father. He boiled some water in three cans. He put the egg into the first can, the potato into the second and the tea leaves into the third. Then, he waited. After ten minutes, he pointed to the cans.

"Look," he said. "We put everything into hot water, but different things happened to each one. The egg was soft, but now it is hard. The potato was hard, but now it is soft. And the tea leaves have changed the colour of the water. When life is hard, what will you do? Will you become hard or soft? Or will you change your life?"

- B went to school.
